About the Photographer

After a 15-year career of studio portrait photography, (Wildwood Studio - weddings, seniors, children, families, confirmations, reunions, and commercial work), Connie left her studio to follow her passion for international travel and photographing other cultures.

For nearly 20 years she has traveled the world, documenting people and everyday life with her camera in more than 35 third-world countries. She continues to travel, but has come full circle, and again focuses her attention on making portraits at home.

Connie offers a photojournalistic view, with close attention to detail, which adds a creative edge to catch the character of her subject.
